Font Bureau was founded in 1989 by noted publications designer and consultant Roger Black and type designer David Berlow to serve the emerging needs of microcomputer-based magazine and newspaper publishers seeking unique typographic identities. During the past 19 years, Font Bureau has designed over 1,500 fonts for over 300 publications, many that have become part of Font Bureau's Retail Library.

The company remains small and privately held, with freelance and independent designers providing infusions of creativity. Full-time staff and designers direct the studio operations in Boston, which serves as the company's headquarters.

SINGLE-USER LICENSE & MULTI-WORKSTATION LICENSE

In most cases, your choice of license should be based on the number and location of computers you plan to install the font on. If at any point in the future your font license is not sufficient to the number of computers you will be using the fonts on, you may upgrade your license by contacting Font Bureau. These license options are available for automated purchase on our web site.

The single-user license is for one workstation plus limited use on a portable or home computer. A multi-workstation license allows the user to install the fonts on a specified number of workstations. Licensed workstations must belong to the entity (company or organization) licensing the fonts.

NON EDITABLE EMBEDDING (PDF PUBLISHING) LICENSE UPGRADE FOR A MULTI-WORKSTATION LICENSE

This upgrade adds additional embedding rights to a multi-workstation License. The base license permits embedding of the fonts into non-editable files for output or a limited amount of comping. If you need to embed our fonts in a non-editable PDF that will be distributed to more than 100 recipients, or if you are using the fonts in Flash (or any similar technology which embeds font data) on a web site, then you will need this upgrade. The cost is a one time fee of one third of the original multi-workstation License price.

CORPORATE LICENSING PROGRAMS

In some cases, your choice of license is more complicated due to the scale of the user base or intended use for the typefaces. Contact Font Bureau to discuss these licensing options. Below are some examples of our corporate licensing programs:

MULTI-WORKSTATION LICENSE WITH LIMITED DISTRIBUTION

License allows installation of the fonts on a specified number of workstations, so long as all of the licensed workstations belong to the entity (company or organization) licensing the fonts, and to distribute the fonts to a specified number of users outside their entity with a special End User License Agreement (EULA) that limits use of the fonts to work for the client.

DISTRIBUTION (OEM) LICENSE

If you would like to incorporate our fonts into your software products in a way where the end of your software product will interact with the font, then you will need to arrange for a special license from Font Bureau.

ENTERPRISE LICENSE

This is the broadest license we offer. A client purchasing this license is permitted to install the fonts on all workstations owned by the entity (company or organization) licensing the fonts, and to distribute the fonts to anyone outside their entity with a special End User License Agreement (EULA) that limits use of the fonts to work for the client. This license is ideal for a corporate identity situation where, in addition to internal use, the fonts need to be used by affiliates, dealers, distributors, agents, or suppliers of the licensee, in order to create and maintain a brand. This license can also work very well for a product advertising campaign.

QUICK PRICING FOR STANDARD SINGLE USER & MULTI WORKSTATION LICENSED

When you license Font Bureau typefaces, you only need to license the fonts you need. Rather than bundle our typefaces into large packages, all of our fonts are available individually. However, we still offer bulk discounts for larger orders. This chart explains how it works.

Your choice of user license should be based on the number of workstations you plan to install the fonts on. The number you choose reflects the total number of workstations you will be legally allowed to install the fonts on. If you need to install the fonts on more workstations than your license permits, you may upgrade your license at any time by contacting Font Bureau. You may not, however, downgrade your license once you have made your purchase.

For orders that exceed the limits of this chart, go to our website, choose your fonts, click the CART button, and get the price.

ALMOST 20 YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

As we approach the 20th anniversary of the Font Bureau, we realize that, while font technologies continue to evolve, the core design skills required to produce high quality, useful typefaces have not changed. Just as line casting replaced stick type 150 years ago and photo composition supplanted lead type 50 years ago, new tools continue to speed production and improve functionality. However, some things are still the same. Decisions about what designs to produce and how to craft them are best made using a knowledge base which has changed little in hundreds of years. This remains the essence of what we do and why we are successful.

OPENTYPE IS HERE

As we are publishing this volume at a time of a significant change in font technology, we feel it is worthwhile to share our thoughts on and experience with OpenType to date. The most immediate benefit of OpenType for our customers is the simple practicality of a single font file that will work on almost all platforms. For this reason, we have made our fonts available in “simple” OpenType, with the same character set as PostScript or TrueType, at the same price point we have always offered. This allows our clients to immediately take advantage of the most basic benefit of the new technology. With this said, we have run into many tech support situations where the best answer was a PostScript or TrueType font, which we will be happy to supply and continue to support for as long as our clients require it.

The second major benefit of OpenType is that it is possible to include many more characters in a font. This is a wonderful evolution that we have begun to routinely use to solve a number of our clients’ font problems. In the near future we will begin to offer off-the-shelf fonts that include many of these additions, including support for more languages, additional figure sets (such as tabular, old-style, or lining), arbitrary fractions, and other useful features.

OpenType also offers the potential for “smart” fonts which will, as standards in application design and implementation evolve, become more practical and useful. We routinely use these “features” to solve typographic problems for clients in specific software environments. Soon we expect to be able to incorporate these features into our retail fonts in a useful way.
